

J. Thomas Puglisi, Ph.D

As Director of the Division of Human Subject Protections in the Office for Protection from Research Risks (OPRR), Tom Puglisi has responsibility for implementing all regulations and policies related to the protection of human subjects in research conducted or supported by the Department of Health and Human Services (HHS), and in other research committed to these regulations.

Tom received his Ph.D. in Developmental Psychology from The Ohio State University in 1978. Prior to joining OPRR in 1989, he was an associate professor of psychology at the University of North Carolina Charlotte, where he conducted research in Experimental Psychology and Human Aging, coordinated the Interdisciplinary Program in Gerontology, and chaired the Human Subjects Institutional Review Board (IRB).

From 1986 to 1987, Tom was a Congressional Science Fellow with the Select Committee on Aging in the U.S. House of Representatives. He was elected a Fellow of the American Psychological Association in 1990.
